Kailash Cancer Hospital & Research Centre - 25 Years of Seva, Science & Sanctity

At Muni Seva Ashram, every institution, initiative, and vertical is born not of ambition, but of attentive listening-listening to the quiet cries of society, to the unspoken suffering of families, and to the urgent needs of the times.

A quarter-century ago, cancer was emerging as a formidable challenge. Patients from rural and tribal regions were compelled to travel great distances for treatment, often at immense physical, emotional, and financial cost. Many who reached the Ashram carried not only disease, but also exhaustion, fear, and deep uncertainty. From within society arose a collective appeal-patients, caregivers, social workers, and well-wishers humbly approached Pujya Shree Ben, requesting the establishment of a cancer hospital at Goraj.

The vision was audacious. The path, demanding. Goraj was remote. Resources were limited. Comprehensive cancer care required advanced technology, specialised expertise, and sustained commitment.

25 Years of Healing Hope Humaneness

Yet, guided by faith in seva and courage anchored in compassion, Pujya Shree Ben took an unwavering resolve-that distance, poverty, or geography would never determine who receives care and who is left to suffer.

Thus, a sacred resolve took form.

Twenty-five years ago, in the heart of a tribal region of Gujarat, Kailash Cancer Hospital & Research Centre was born-a beacon of hope where despair once prevailed. What emerged was not merely a hospital, but a sanctuary where science and spirituality walk hand in hand, where healing is approached with both precision and prayer.

Today, Kailash Cancer Hospital stands as a state-of-the-art, comprehensive cancer care centre, offering prevention, diagnosis, treatment, and rehabilitation under one roof. From the small village of Goraj, it has earned national and global recognition, placing this humble land of Gujarat firmly on the world map of compassionate oncology. Equipped with appropriate and evolving medical technology, guided by evidence-based oncology, and served by dedicated doctors, nurses, and staff, the hospital remains steadfast to its founding principle:

No one should ever be deprived of cancer treatment.

Over the past 25 years, more than 34 lakh patients have been touched by its healing hands. Behind every number lies a human story—a family reassured, a burden lightened, a journey softened. For countless individuals, Kailash has been the bridge between abandonment and assurance, between fear and faith.

Here, treatment is never reduced to protocols alone. Clinical excellence is enriched by empathy. Precision medicine is upheld by human presence. Technology works to heal the body, while compassion restores dignity. Affordable care is not an exception—it is a conscious and unwavering commitment.

Revered by many as “કેન્સરના કાશી”, Kailash Cancer Hospital has become both people's hope and God's blessing. It stands as the living summit of the mountain of seva of Muni Seva Ashram—where service becomes worship, and healing becomes prayer.

As we complete 25 years of this sacred journey, our mission stands renewed. The challenges of cancer continue to evolve, and so does our resolve—to strengthen research, expand accessibility, uphold ethical practice, and deepen compassion.

With folded hands and grateful hearts, we dedicate this milestone to every patient who trusted us, every caregiver who stood unwavering, every doctor and staff member who served tirelessly, every donor who supported this mission not only with resources but with heartfelt faith, and every well-wisher who believed in this dream.

The journey continues—stronger in science, deeper in spirit, and steadfast in seva...!

Celebration of Bhagwan Birsa Munda Jayanti at Our School

Our school celebrated the birth anniversary of Bhagwan Birsa Munda with a vibrant traditional musical performance that paid tribute to his courage, leadership, and deep connection with nature. Students beautifully showcased the richness of tribal culture through music and rhythm. The program reminded everyone of Birsa Munda's invaluable contribution to the nation and inspired students to uphold his values of bravery, unity, and service to society.

“ When young minds are nurtured with values, the nation is strengthened. ”

In just three decades, the simple mobile phone has evolved into today's smartphone—a device that now shapes how we communicate, learn, work, and even think. Its benefits are undeniable: instant information, digital payments, online education, and global connectivity at our fingertips.

But this convenience comes at a cost. The average Indian spends nearly five hours a day on their phone, leading to rising cases of digital addiction, eye strain, neck and back pain, and a noticeable decline in real family conversations. When a tool begins to quietly control our time, attention, and relationships, it turns from a blessing into a burden.

Recently, students from the Ashram's Vocational Training Centre addressed this growing concern through a creative musical performance that urged everyone to pause and reflect.

The message is simple: let the smartphone remain your assistant, not your master. Mindful use can preserve its benefits while protecting our wellbeing and relationships.

Keep Rising, Keep Shining:

Proud to share that our EMRS students excelled at Khel Mahakumbh 2025, achieving remarkable results at the Taluka and District levels. Congratulations to all the winners and participants, and sincere thanks to their mentors for their unwavering support.
